Presidents Message

I would like to remind everyone that we have our 7th Annual "Drive Out Hunger" Show coming up July 18th from 9am to 2pm at the Downingtown East High School. We have great exhibitors lined up. Last year we introduced the Push Rod Drop and the Rocker Arm Toss. Everyone seemed to enjoy playing these games, so we will have them again this year.

I would also like to say "thanks" to all the volunteers helping this year. If you would like to help, please contact Joe Priscoglio at vicepresident@tdcmotorclub.

*We can use the most help prior to the event

Last year we did fantastic with door prizes, and we can do better this year. If every member would collect just one (1) donation from an establishment they frequent, like an eatery, automotive repair center, hair dresser, nail salon, etc., we would have quite a collection for DOH door prizes. It doesn't have to be a gift card, it can be a "cash" donation and we will purchase one in their name.

When you get a donation, please email the officers with the information so it can be put on a list and that way the same stores or establishments are not asked more than once.

Make sure you get a contact name and address

"DRIVE OUT HUNGER"

Remember the saying, "It takes a Village to Raise a Child". The same applies to make this show successful every year. Top Dead Center Motor Club also has a saying, "It Takes Dedicated Members to Step Up and Volunteer to Help".

See you Crusin',
Joe O'Fria, President

ART OF THE SERVICE STATION

In the 1940s and 1950s, oil companies produced a wealth of items now eagerly sought after by collectors.

Not that many years ago, there were service stations on the corners of almost every major intersection. Service was not just an idle term, as nattily attired attendants greeted motorists as they filled the car with fuel, checked the oil and cleaned the windshields. It certainly was a far cry from today's world.

Competition was severe and the stations attracted customers not only with exceptional service but bold and dramatic advertising. Multicolor porcelain signs displayed the company logo and illuminated glass globes proudly sat on top of the majestic gas pumps. Even the oil cans were often striking as this was the era prior to the age of mass advertising, and impulsive point-of-sale decisions were often made based on the distinctive graphics.

Many items the early motorist required were often free for the asking. Road maps were distinctive with interesting covers in hopes that the traveler would keep them in the glove box and stop in again at the same station. Ink blotters and matches were given freely, and promotions that involved items such as salt and pepper shakers in the form of gas pumps were frequent.

Today, die-cut figural porcelain signs can sell for as much as $20,000, and early brands such as Sunset, Mohawk, Paragon and Ace High are extremely desirable. Items from the Roxana Shell facility in Illinois cause a frenzy when they are offered due to their distinctive logo, while the Mobil "Flying Red Horse" has an equally committed following.

The early gas pumps, such as the Art Deco Wayne 50 with display cabinet, are now worth around $10,000 and, while frequently over restored, they make a strong statement in a "car barn" or recroom. The colorful glass globes can get pricey in a hurry. For example, a Musco globe with the colorful Indian in full headdress can easily push five figures. Of course, more common ones can be obtained for a few hundred dollars, but reproductions abound.

Glassware, playing cards, name badges and mechanical pencils are just a few of the other items that are very collectible, especially when a collection is focused on a particular brand.

Service with a smile may be a thing of the past, but many of the reminders of that service live on with a group of committed collectors.
